Professional Experience

Andy Roberts began his career in commercial real estate by raising capital for various REIT portfolios that are now traded on the NYSE. During his tenure in capital markets, Andy developed a passion for counseling clients on the dynamics of investing in commercial real estate.

Following his tenure with REITs, Andy joined Cresa in the summer of 2014 to help clients navigate their real estate decisions in a market where a growing percentage of properties are institutionally owned. Andy enjoys educating clients on the manner their real estate decisions impact not only their financial bottom line but their culture and labor force dynamics as well.
